He failed and In this kitch Harrington secured and Harrington getting in quickly good hold, and endeavored to throw planted Rowett fairly and squarely or his back. Like the first fall the crowd went wild, both men having many adherents in the audience.

The third fall was secured inside of Officen minutes. Believing that he had the measure of his man, each of the wrestlers went at it fast and furious in order to make a quick decision. Rowett, it is believed, never wrestled faster in his life than in these four hitches. From being the cautious and wary wrestler he went right after Harrington, and bustled the lighter man off his feet. Picking Harrington up bodily in the fourth hitch, Rowet: turned him a beauty, securing fall No. 2 and the money.

It was a great match, and should these men ever come together again, It is believed they would draw a still larger house. Ford, Gray, Nelson and Pete Harrington were in Tim Harrington's corner, while George Getchell and Laughlin MacDonald looked after Rowett. James Willeox referred the preliminary bout, while Louis Morgan, the well known lightweight Cornish wrestler, referred the main event, and gave general satisfaction.

HANS IS MODEST.

With Ball Game.

Hans Wagner was in New York last year when the big six-day bieyele race was on. One night he picked up four Pittsburg friends and took them over to see the fun. Going up to the box the ticket booth, "the courtesies of this show are always extended to ball players. You will please accept these five tickets with the manager's compliments."

"I beg your pardon," said Hans, "but my name is not Wagner. My name s Smith, but I am often taken for the Pittsburg player. I must insist on payng for the tickets." Wagner had not been inside Madion Square garden five minutes before he was recognized, and several thousand people began crying: Wagner!" Hans picked up his hat and started away. "Good night fellow". I'm no freak." And Hans went back to his hotel to bed. The one drawback to baseball, in the estimation of Hans, is the unavoidable notoriety connected with it.

NOW BETTING THAT KETCH WILL STAY 15 ROUNDS

San Francisco, Oct. 11.-In the beting on the Ketchel-Johnson fight speculation werns to be confined as to the length of the fight. Even money that Ketchet will by will not last fifeen rounds, and it is said a man does sot have to wait long to have his mony taken, no matter how he wants to set on this particular phase of the buttle.

As far as can be tearned Ketchel ioney is plentiful, and it may be that within a day or two the middleweight hampion's friends will be offering oney that he will be on deck at th nd of the sixteenth round.

This is all due, no doubt to a study f Johnson's past record. In his fight n the coast, especially whenever h was matched to go 20 rounds, he rarely von by a knockout. As a matter of act, nearly every man he faced lasted the full 20 rounds, although Johnso by dint of eleverness gained the deci-
